"The South 40" by JAMES A. SMITH EXTENSION AGENT

Dairymen should receive this week a copy of the "A.I. Hot List." This is a current listing of bulls that have an $84 predicted additional value. These should certainly be considered if you are serious about increasing milk production.

* * *

In recent weeks we've worked with a half-dozen or more dairymen on feed rations; there's a lot of room for improvement. By making the needed adjustments we can increase milk production in these herds by two to three thousand pounds this year.

We'll get to others as time permits, but if you think there are possible feed problems on your farm, bring in a silage and concentrate sample and we'll get to you quicker.

Last Thursday night 38 people took the test to become certified as a private pesticide applicator.

Additional classes will be offered next fall and winter. Home gardeners will not need to become certified as there will probably be adequate "General Use" pesticides and you will not require certification.

The law requiring certification does not go into effect until October 1977.

I understand that the film "A Forest is Where you Grow It" will be shown on Channel 13 Sunday, March 28, at 1:30 p.m. You'll want to see this film.

Let's talk about OSHA requirements as they affect farmers:

Agricultural tractors manufactured after October 25, 1976, will be equiped with approved roll-over protective structures (ROPS).

On tractors that ROPS are required the employer shall: (A) provide each tractor with a seatbelt which is approved; (B) Ensure that each employee uses such seatbelt while the tractor is moving; and (C) Ensure that each employee tightens the seatbelt sufficiently to confine the employee to the protected area provided by the ROPS.

Batteries, fuel tanks, oil reservoirs, and coolant systems shall be constructed and located or sealed to assure that spillage will not occur which may come in contact with the operator in the event of an upset.

All sharp edges and corners at the operator's station shall be designed to minimize operator injury in the event of an upset.

When ROPS are removed for any reason, such as tractors while used with mounted equipment which is incompatible with ROPS (corn pickers, etc.), they shall be remounted.

As of July 1, 1975 every employee who operates an agricultural tractor shall be informed of approved operating practices and of any other practices dictated by the work environment. Such information shall be provided at the time of initial assignment and at least annually thereafter.

The approved employee operating instructions are as follows: (1) Securely fasten your seat belt if the tractor has a ROPS; (2) Where possible, avoid operating the tractor near ditches, embankments and holes; (3) Reduce speed when turning, crossing slopes, and on rough, slick or muddy surfaces; (4) Stay off slopes too steep for safe operation; (5) Watch where you are going, especially at row ends, on roads, and around trees; (6) Do not permit others to ride; (7) Operate the tractor smoothly -- no jerky turns, starts or stops; (8) Hitch only to the drawbar and hitch points recommended by tractor manufacturers; (9) When tractor is stopped, set brakes securely and use park lock if available.

Farm operators who employ workers will probably need a record system to demonstrate that this instruction has been given. When harvest begins don't overlook including seasonal employees in this instruction.

By June 7, 1977, there will be regulations concerning power take off shielding or guarding. As soon as we have an interpretation of this law, it will be communicated to you.

Following the performance, several resource persons will discuss issues in the play and relate the scene to the Central Virginia area, with the audience encouraged to participate.

All PTA units are urged to have representation at this meeting.

The Time In My Life I Was Proudest Of Being An American

Every time I see the flag wave, or hear the "Star Spangled Banner," I feel very proud of my country. However, the day I felt the proudest of being an American goes back to seven years ago.

I was ten years old, and had completed the fourth grade. Since I had enjoyed studing Virginia History so much, my parents agreed to take me to Jamestown, the birthplace of our great nation.

I listened attentively as the guide told us about the voyage of the Susan Constant, Godspeed, and Discovery. I tried to picture in my mind what it was like to give up a home in England, and make a long and hard voyage to an unknown world.

There were one hundred and five people on board. Their journey lasted nearly five months, and at last land was in sight. Imagine how they must have felt touching ground after five months at sea.

Little did the colonists know of the many hardships awaiting them. Indians lurking in the nearby woods would kill many of the colonists. Fever, caused by the mosquito, would take many lives, and some would die from starvation. Still, the colonists never gave up.

In later years, the colonists struggled to win their independence from the Mother Country. Yet, it wasn't until the year 1776, that the dream of the colonists became a reality - a free and independent nation.

So much has happened since the day the colonists set up the first permanent settlement at Jamestown. It was over three hundred and fifty years ago that the colonists courageously tried to build a long and lasting nation for us.

Now in the year 1976 I reminisce about the day I stood on the banks of the James River. I think about the blood that was shed for our country. I think about the flag rippling in the cool breeze, and what it symbolizes. Today that one piece of cloth represents the fifty states of America, united under one nation and God. The white stands for integrity, and the stars for the growth of our nation. The red is for the courage of our forefathers; and the blue for loyalty for all who have lived and died for our great Democracy.

As we celebrate our two hundred years of freedom, I still feel proud of my country just the way I felt seven years ago at Jamestown. Why am I proud? America has given me so much; a country in which I feel free, a home where love is shown, a church that prepares me for life, and a church where I can worship God in my own way.

"Ay, call it holy ground,
The sod where first they trod;
They have left unstained
What there they found,
Freedom to worship God."

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Ashland Glover is in Southside Community Hospital. We pray that he will recover soon.

There were answered prayers and tears of happiness Saturday afternoon when a little three year old girl and her family were re-united. Two, traveling together from Oklahoma, had stoped at the Holiday Lake Road Wayside at the picnic table to have lunch. When leaving, one child, Sarah,in the front, wanted to ride in the back. The mother called and told them Sarah wanted to ride with them, but they did not hear her. Somehow, the back trailer pulled out without seeing Sarah. She was running down the road crying when John Pearson came on and stopped to see what was wrong. She said Mama and Daddy had left her.

After inquiring from several in the vicinity if anyone knew her he took her home and some of his family and Oris Webb stood beside the road and held her (so if her family came back they would see her) while John had started out to notify the police, about this time the family came back and recognized Sarah and another saw her first and said he had been praying all the way back that they would find her safe and sound. They had stopped at a service station for gas before they missed her. Each family thought she was with the other one. We are so thankful that God answers prayers. She was in good hands and this story had a happy ending.

Mrs. Neal Named State Chairman For Cancer Crusade

MRS. M. PINSON NEAL, JR.

Mrs. M. Pinson Neal, Jr. of Richmond, who has been appointed State Chairman for the American Cancer Society's 1976 educational and fund-raising Crusade, which has as its theme - "Join the Fight for Independence from Cancer." She will lead 85,000 volunteers in efforts to bring cancer information to the citizens of Virginia while seeking to raise $2,000,000 for the Society's varied programs of education, service and research.

Mrs. Neal is a professional physical therapist and wife of a physician, the Provost of the Medical College of Virginia, Health Sciences Division, Virginia Commonwealth University. Commenting on her role as Cancer Crusade Chairman, Mrs. Neal explained that the educational emphasis for the April Crusade will be on breast cancer. "It is reassuring to know," she said, "that there will be 85,000 volunteers bringing news to Virginians of the fact that early detection is our best weapon against cancer." She added that "Fear of the unknown and misinterpreted facts often play a major role in the late detection of cancer."

Mrs. Neal's most recent activity with the American Cancer Society has been as State Chairman for last September's Pap Test Month observance in Virginia. She also is a member of the Society's Virginia Woman's Committee to Conquer Uterine Cancer.

Active in a number of community organizations, she has served as President of the Medical College of Virginia Faculty Woman's Club, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Richmond Academy of Medicine, and the Medical College of Virginia Faculty Woman's Club, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Richmond Academy of Medicine, and the Medical College of Virginia Hospitals Auxiliary.

She has a special interest in health legislation and has served as Vice President and Legislative Chairman for the Woman's Auxiliary to the Medical Society of Virginia since 1968. She also has been Legislative Vice Chairman for the Lee District of the Virginia Federation of Woman's Clubs. She is active in a number of national organizations and was recently elected treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Southern Medical Association.
